This ordeal is real

Cancer fraudster gets conditional sentence Ordered to attend counselling, take medication and perform 100 hours of community service — but not for any charity

An Ontario woman who shaved her head and eyebrows to convince people she had cancer and then pocketed the donations they made to her bogus charity will not go to jail for the scam.

Ashley Kirilow received a 15-month conditional sentence Thursday, 10 months of which are to be served under house arrest.

The sentence is "not an instrument for the acting of public vengeance and retribution," Justice Fred Forsythe told the court

Kirilow had already pleaded guilty to one count of fraud over $5,000 in November and pleaded guilty to one count of fraud under $5,000 Thursday. Five other counts of fraud under $5,000 were withdrawn.

No members of Kirilow's family were in court.

Shortly after she turned herself in to police last August, Kirilow's parents tearfully spoke out, saying they have tried to help her for years. Her father, Mike Kirilow, has said he won't support his daughter. Her mother, Cindy Edwards, has also said she wants "nothing to do with her anymore."

‘Our goal is to be that voice of conscience’

▶ Green party Leader Elizabeth May unveils her party’s election platform during a campaign stop in Toronto on Thursday.

Green party platform includes $2.5B in added revenue over three years from legalizing, taxing pot

Election 2011

A Green government would bring the “voice of reason” to Ottawa, leader Elizabeth May said Thursday as she unveiled an election platform that promises to overhaul Parliament, jack up corporate taxes and legalize marijuana.

The fully costed platform includes an additional $3.8 billion in spending, financed by a spike in corporate taxes and an end to subsidies for nuclear and fossil fuels — moves worth $6.5 billion a year.

May billed the platform as a sensible and practical alternative to the status quo, a holistic vision of government that confronts Canada’s future challenges, both economic and environmental.

“Our goal is to be that voice of conscience, that voice of reason,” she said during a news conference in Toronto — May’s first sojourn outside B.C. since the start of the election campaign.

The party is focused on three major themes, May said — a “smart economy,” “strong communities” and “true democracy.”

The platform calls for income splitting for all Canadian families, including same-sex couples, investment in early childhood education, tax credits for students and a boost for municipalities.

May promised to introduce her income-splitting scheme immediately, rather than wait for a balanced budget four years from now, as the Conservatives have promised.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highlights

The Green party’s three-year budget also includes:

- An increase in corporate taxes to 19 per cent, up from 16.5 per cent.
- $1 billion to help municipalities launch a youth-employment program that would hire students to work on city projects for a year for minimum wage. Each student would later get a $4,000 tuition credit.
- Six “superfunds” to help municipalities pay for items such as community housing, environmental remediation and recreation facilities.

Bob Barker begs Toronto Zoo to retire elephants

Longtime friend of animals in general, and elephants in particular, activist is not afraid to beg

The one and only Bob Barker will visit Toronto April 15 in an attempt to convince the Toronto Zoo to send its elephants south.

Barker, animal activist and former host of The Price Is Right, will meet with some city councillors and members of the Toronto Zoo board of management. They are "genuinely looking at the possibility of moving the three elephants in Toronto to a more agreeable climate," he said.

Mayor Rob Ford has also been invited.

The zoo is trying to decide whether to renovate its elephant exhibit or retire elephants Toka, Thika and Iringa to a wildlife sanctuary.

Sheen's kindness saves charity prize

Charlie Sheen is addicted to winning.

And the tiger blood-fuelled rock star from Mars is making sure a few kind-hearted Oakville residents know what it's like.

The sitcom star is inviting them to his recently launched stage show after they bid $13,500 each at a Habitat For Humanity fundraiser to see a live taping of Two And A Half Men. The generous donors will even get to meet the warlock himself.

"This comes right from Charlie," said Sam Threadgill, a rep at Scoop Marketing, the firm owned by Larry Solters, who represents Sheen.

Sheen was recently fired from the hit CBS show, which is on hiatus.

Sheen's dismissal followed a year in and out of drug rehab, and an excessively documented implosion into spectacular madness that, among many other things, included rants against the show's creator, Chuck Lorre, and a series of bizarre interviews, including one in which he declared himself a warlock.

In November, the Oakville, Milton and District Real Estate Board held a silent auction fundraiser for Habitat For Humanity, in which the top prize was a trip for two to watch the show's taping.

33 chihuahuas rescued in Oakville

Humane society says dogs were found living in squalid conditions in a house that looked like a scene from the TV show Hoarders

Healthy pups

Despite the conditions they were found in, the chihuahuas were surprisingly healthy.

- They had some minor eye and respiratory problems, but they were clearing up after being exposed to clean air for a few days.
- Amanda Barrett, from the humane society, said since the dogs were removed from the home they have become more sociable with people.
- Barrett was unable to give any kind of time frame as to when the dogs will be available for adoption.

The Oakville and Milton Humane Society is appealing for donations after 33 chihuahuas were rescued from an Oakville home Thursday.

Amanda Barrett, the humane society's manager of animal protective services, said the dogs were found living in squalid conditions after a concerned resident alerted Halton police about what was going on inside an Oakville home.

When Barrett was called she found, what she said, an apparent breeding operation gone wrong.

The way the dogs were being housed, however, was even worse than the squalid conditions.

"I've been in this line of work for over six years and this is probably one of the worst cases I can honestly say I have ever seen," said Barrett.

"There were crates stacked upon crates with defecation falling through onto the other dogs. It was packed solid with urine and defecation and newspaper shreddings. The dogs were being housed with several of them in a small cage and the size of the cage was not allowing them adequate movement."

Barrett, who says her eyes still sting from the ammonia in the air at the home, described the smell in the house as overwhelming. She said one of her officers had to leave at one point when he began having breathing problems.

"As much as we just deal with animals, I am a little concerned for the owner as well. I kept on stressing that to her and finally after explaining to her that even she shouldn't be living in these conditions she actually ended up co-operating with us and surrendering the animals to us," said Barrett.

"They say hoarding is a psychological illness and after seeing this case I think that is the truth. It's like with alcoholics, they don't realize how bad it is until somebody shows them what they are actually doing."

Sikh sympathies begin to turn blue

When Stephen Harper kicked off his election campaign on a Sunday morning in Brampton, with Sikhs flanking him on both sides for a national news audience, the scene seemed straight out of an old Liberal play book.

Every time Harper emphasized a point, bearded, turbaned men clapped and let out a low drone in unison — orchestrated by the party that not long ago was seen as unfriendly to core Sikh Canadian issues such as immigration and religious freedom.

There has been little attention until now to the drift of the Sikh community away from the Liberal camp it helped prop up for decades.

"The Conservatives are working for us now," explained truck driver Harvinder Singh. "They cut immigration fees," he added, referring to the right of landing fee, which the Tories reduced in 2006 to $490 from $975.

"I did volunteer work for two elections with the Liberals. I wanted to participate in Canadian politics," said Singh, who lives in the Castlemore neighbourhood in the Brampton-Springdale riding, where he says most of his neighbours also trace their roots to Punjab. He is volunteering again, but this time for the Conservatives.

"The Liberals are like the Akali Dal in Punjab," he said of an Indian party once viewed as a strong voice for Sikh ambitions. "They say they work for the Sikhs, but they don't anymore. They took our votes for granted."

Condo evacuated after pipe bursts

A broken hot water pipe is being blamed for a scalding flood that caused many residents to flee their Mississauga highrise Thursday morning.

The condominium building was partially evacuated after a water pipe burst on the sixth floor, flooding several units and the stairwell.

Fire officials are reporting massive water damage to the 30-storey building at 4080 Living Arts Dr., near the Square One shopping mall.

One tenant suffered burns to her feet from the hot water that flooded her unit. Both of her cats were killed.

A pregnant woman on the 23rd floor reportedly went into labour during the evacuation, but couldn't get out of the building because the elevators were shut down.

Firefighters were able to reach her and get her to hospital where she is said to be fine.

Officials said large amounts of water flooded the sixth floor and poured all the way down to the second-level parking garage.

Harper says sorry in furor over screening

- After days of uproar, PM strives to put Tory campaign back on track
- RCMP admits it ejected voters

Stephen Harper has finally said sorry.

The prime minister apologized Thursday for people being booted from Conservative campaign events on suspicion they supported rival parties or groups.

"If anybody is kept out of any of our events that's there to hear our message, then we obviously apologize to them," he said in Vaughan. "Our interest is in having as many people out to hear our message as we can."

The RCMP has admitted some Mounties helped the Tories eject people, and it reminded its officers their job is to guard leaders, not serve political parties.

Iggy blasts candidate — but won't boot him

Comments on sexual assault by a former judge running for the Liberals in Alberta are "utterly, totally unacceptable," Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff said Thursday.

But Ignatieff won't demand that John Reilly quit his candidacy, saying one "disgraceful" remark does not undo a lifetime of public service.

Reilly told a radio interviewer that a young man's inappropriate sexual contact with a drunken teenage girl did not warrant three years jail.

Reilly raised the rather graphic example as he explained his opposition to the Harper government's expansion of mandatory minimum sentences.

He apologized for the comments after the Conservatives circulated them to campaign reporters.

"I unreservedly apologize for the clumsy example I used during my remarks," Reilly said.

He added: "I want to make explicitly clear that I believe that all sexual assaults should be prosecuted and the guilty individuals should be subject to sanctions."

Julian Fantino, a Conservative candidate and former Ontario police commissioner, said: "Sexual offences of any kind are totally and absolutely unacceptable."

He added outside a home in his Vaughan riding: "I don't know how anybody could have any tolerance whatsoever for any type of crime, let alone sexual offences."

CARNAGE AT RIO

Gunman with AIDS kills 11 children ‘I’m going to kill you all,’ he shouts Students soaked in blood

A gunman roamed the halls of an elementary school in Rio de Janeiro Thursday and killed 11 children.

He lined them up against a wall and shot them in the head at point-blank range as he shouted, “I’m going to kill you all!”

The carnage would have been deadlier if the gunman had not been shot in the legs by a police officer — who said the man then fell down some stairs and shot himself in the head.

Images taken with a cellphone and posted on YouTube showed students fleeing wildly, screaming for help, many with their white and blue school shirts soaked in blood.

“He saw me and aimed a gun at me. I shot him in the legs, he fell down the stairs and then shot himself in the head. ”
POLICE OFFICER MARCIO ALVES

Jade Ramos, a student at the school, said the gunman repeatedly yelled, “I’m going to kill you all!”

“He had already killed a lot of children in the first floor and in the yard,” she said on TV.

“He kept telling the kids to face the wall and was shooting at their heads. The children kept begging, ‘No, please!’ There was a lot of blood, children agonizing on the stairs.”

“He came in shooting,” said Andreia Machado, recounting what her 13-year-old daughter, Thayane, told her before going into surgery.

Thayane was hit by three bullets and lost feeling in her legs because one hit her spine, said her mother.

Crying as she spoke, Machado wondered if her daughter would ever be able to return to school — or walk. “We have to trust in God.”

Killer leaves grim letter at scene

The gunman, identified as Wellington Oliveira, 23, left a rambling letter indicating he wanted to kill himself. It said he was infected with the AIDS virus, an official said.

It explained in detail how Oliveira wanted his corpse to be cared for — bathed and wrapped in a white sheet that he left in a bag in the first room where he said he would start shooting.

The letter also said he should not be touched by anyone who is "impure" unless they wear gloves.

AND THEN THERE WAS ONE.

Ontario is now the only province in Canada where dental assistants are not a regulated health profession. This means that dentists can hire people without formal education to do the work of dental assistants. Dental assistants take radiographs, are responsible for infection control and may perform other intra-oral duties.

The Ontario Dental Assistants Association (ODAA), the certifying body for Ontario dental assistants feels this is a matter of public safety. Dental patients have the right to know that everyone working in a dental office is educated and formally trained.

The Ontario government will not review the ODAA's request for regulation until 2013. Meanwhile, for the good of your oral health and safety, ask if your dentist hires only ODAA certified dental assistants.

Israel retaliates after attack

Defence officials say incident marks significant moment that warrants a severe response

An anti-tank missile fired from the Gaza Strip struck a school bus in southern Israel Thursday, wounding two people, one of them critically, and prompting fierce Israeli retaliation that killed five Palestinians.

Israel unleashed air strikes and tank fire against Hamas targets across the border. It was the heaviest assault on the coastal territory since a broad military offensive two years ago. Besides the dead, more than 30 Palestinians were wounded, said Palestinian health official Adham Abu Salmiya.

He said one of the dead was a 50-year-old civilian who was sitting outside his home when he was struck by tank fire. Three others were militants killed near the southern Gaza town of Rafah. The fifth man was a Hamas policeman.

After two years of relative calm, tensions have been rising between Israel and Palestinian militants in Gaza over the past few weeks. For Israel, Thursday's attack was the most serious of this period.

Jury concerns snag kidnap case

Lawyer for accused also blasts co-accused's lawyer for saying husband had made a deal to plead guilty

An expected guilty plea by a convicted sex offender accused of kidnapping and raping a girl when she was 11 and holding her captive for 18 years was derailed Thursday when his lawyer alleged a grand jury was improperly selected and acted inappropriately.

Public defender Susan Gellman, who represents defendant Phillip Garrido, made the claim during a brief hearing where Garrido and his wife and co-defendant Nancy Garrido entered not guilty pleas to kidnapping, rape and other charges contained in an amended indictment.

Victim Jaycee Dugard was snatched off her family's street in June 1991 while walking to a school bus stop. Authorities said she and her two children, who were fathered by Garrido, were kept in a hidden backyard compound of tents and sheds, never attending school or receiving medical attention. They finally resurfaced in August 2009 when authorities said Phillip Garrido took them to a meeting with his parole officer.

Gellman did not elaborate on her claim in the courtroom Thursday, but said outside that she had questions about the racial and geographic makeup of the grand jury that initially indicted the Garridos last September.

"There are issues about the process itself before the grand jury," Superior Court Judge Doug Phimister said during the hearing. "The court will now consider whether the grand jury acted appropriately." ASSOCIATED PRESS

- Victim Jaycee Dugard gave birth to her daughters when she was 14 and 17, and Nancy Garrido delivered the children, according to court documents. The girls knew Phillip Garrido was their father but grew up thinking Dugard was their older sister.
- The mother and daughters rarely interacted with the outside world. Phillip Garrido ran a printing business, and Dugard assisted him in producing business cards, brochures and flyers, occasionally interacting with clients through email.

Strong aftershock rattles Japan

Widespread power outages reported in tsunami-ravaged northeast

A strong aftershock ripped through northeastern Japan, killing two, injuring dozens and piling misery on a region still buried under the rubble of last month's devastating tsunami.

The quake late Thursday was the strongest tremor since the March 11 jumbo and did some damage, but it appeared to have spared the area's nuclear power plants. The Fukushima Daiichi complex — where workers have been frantically trying to cool overheated reactors since they lost cooling systems last month — reported no new abnormalities.

Other facilities switched to diesel generators after the 7.1-magnitude quake knocked out power to much of the area.

Many people in the area have lived without water and electricity for nearly a month, and the latest tremor sunk more homes into blackness: In total, around 3.6 million households — about 60 per cent of residents in the area — were dark Friday, said Souta Nozu, a spokesman for Tohoku-Electric Power Co., which serves northern Japan.

Countries face standoff over migrant situation

Italy accuses France of hostile attitude toward Tunisians reaching Italian shores French officials vow to further tighten borders against migrants

What Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi's government had hoped would be a rush toward solidarity by fellow European Union nations, as Italy struggles to shelter and guard the more than 25,000 migrants who have sailed clandestinely to southern Italian islands, instead quickly degenerated into a nasty standoff between Paris and Rome.

"Up to now, there has been an attitude of hostility on the part of the French government," said Italian Interior Minister Roberto Maroni.

For days, French authorities have been turning back Tunisians at Italy's border with France. The migrants escaped holding centres on the Italian mainland after the illegal arrivals were transferred from a tiny island between Sicily and Tunisia, where smugglers' boats have been arriving nearly nightly for weeks.

Maroni said at least 25,800 illegal migrants, the large majority of them Tunisians, had arrived since January. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Home ownership, interrupted

RBC poll finds half of young adults are putting off buying a home for at least another year

As home prices continue to outpace income growth, many young Canadians have decided to postpone home ownership, the Royal Bank of Canada says.

RBC's annual home-ownership poll found that 55 per cent of Canadians aged 18 to 34 say it makes sense to put off a home purchase until next year. That's 10 percentage points more than the overall average.

Meanwhile, about half of young people who have already bought a home say their mortgage is eating up too much of their income, suggesting their peers may have good reason to wait.

First-time buyers account for a huge portion of home sales.

These buyers are most affected by stricter lending rules and by recent changes that shortened the maximum amortization period for a mortgage to 30 years, increasing the size of monthly payments. Still, 43 per cent of young adults say they intend to buy in the next two years, suggesting the market will continue to be healthy.

Income gap

- A sharp rebound in the housing market as Canada emerged from the recession has sent home prices soaring. The national average price rose 8.8 per cent year over year to a record $365,192 in February.

No more change for a dollar

‘Flexible’ pricing means big bucks for discount chain Dollarama

Selling merchandise for more than just a dollar is giving discount retailer Dollarama more flexibility against inflation, chief executive Larry Rossy said Thursday, after the Montreal retail chain reported fourth-quarter profits of $42 million.

Rossy said higher inflation in the countries of origin of Dollarama's major suppliers — mainly China — is driving up prices of some items.

Dollarama Inc. has been selling merchandise for one to two dollars, with some higher priced items, for the past two years. Items that cost more than $1 accounted for 42 per cent of sales in the fourth quarter, up from 30 per cent in the same period last year, and are likely to reach 50 per cent of total sales.

“It's not going to go the other way, that's for darn sure,” Rossy said.

1 Stephen Harper's Facebook phobia. Something about kicking those two kids out of Conservative rallies for posing with Michael Ignatieff on Facebook sends chills down our spines. Apology: Too little, too late. If the backlash keeps up look for the prime minister to roll out the piano and torture another Beatles song. Hint: A Little Help From My Friends is easier to sing than Imagine. If Ringo Starr can sing it, anyone can.

2 American Idol: For anyone wondering if this is the best season yet, Wednesday night's show, featuring killer performances from all nine survivors, should seal the deal. Any one of the nine could have blown away last year's winner, er, what's his name. Idol is back. Even Randy Jackson ("Yo, dawg") looks and sounds better this year. Of course, anyone who turns up in the same shot as Jennifer Lopez looks better.

3 Record price for gold and silver. Precious metals got more precious. An ounce of gold now costs $1,457.69 and an ounce of silver costs $39.73. The price of an ounce of common sense: Still priceless. That big crunching noise is the sound of Canadians having their gold fillings removed in order to make the down payment on their mortgages.

4 It's the Masters this week and everybody is wondering if Tiger has any game left. There's obviously enough for the 22-year-old daughter of his agent at IMG. Is it my imagination or is his new girlfriend Alyse Lahti Johnston virtually indistinguishable from Elin Nordegren, the woman who finally put Tiger's career in the rough after all her husband's bad lies? Tiger has come a long way from the kid who blew away the competition at his first Masters as a pro back in 1997 when he set a course record for the tournament and beat everyone else by 12 strokes. A long way ... down.

WASHINGTON. Astronomers are puzzling over an extraordinary cosmic blast in a distant galaxy.

The gamma-ray explosion was observed March 28 by NASA's Swift satellite. Flaring from such an event usually lasts a couple of hours.

Scientists say this blast is unusual because the effects are long-lasting.

More than a week later, they continue to see high-energy radiation spiking and fading at the source.

The burst was likely caused by a star that was ripped apart after drifting too close to a supermassive black hole.

Since the explosion, the Hubble Space Telescope and Chandra X-ray Observatory have focused on the aftermath.

Hubble will observe if the galaxy's core changes brightness in the coming days.

The galaxy is 3.8 billion light years from Earth. A light year is about six trillion miles (9.6 trillion kilometres).

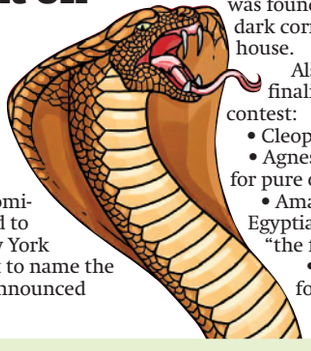
Now we know what to put on pet collar



The Bronx Zoo cobra that became famous for vanishing has been named Mia, for "missing in action."

More than 33,000 nominations were submitted to the Bronx Zoo and New York Daily News in a contest to name the cobra. The name was announced Thursday.

The venomous Egyptian cobra went missing two weeks ago and quickly became the stuff of legend. Someone even started pretending to be the cobra on Twitter. The animal was found last Thursday in a dark corner of the reptile house.

Also chosen as finalists in the name contest:

- Cleopatra.
- Agnes, which is Greek for pure or holy.
- Amaunet, an ancient Egyptian goddess. It means "the female hidden one."
- Subira, Egyptian for "patient."

Plot synopsis

- Russell Brand is Arthur Bach, the ne'er-do-well heir to an enormous fortune. He's a womanizing playboy, a drunk man-child whose nanny (Helen Mirren) describes as "merely shaped like an adult." When he embarrasses his mother she brings down the hammer. Either he straightens up and marries the beautiful but all-business Susan or be disinherited. Trouble is, he's in love with Naomi (Greta Gerwig) a charismatic Grand Central Station tour guide.

Arthur 2.0 succeeds

Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of Arthur ◐ Brand does well in remake, but the Reel Guys differ on his love interest Greta Gerwig

Richard Crouse: Mark, "Arthur Redux" isn't an improvement on the original, but it isn't a complete waste of time either. I really think your enjoyment of Arthur, the remake of the 30-year-old Dudley Moore comedy, is in direct ratio to your enjoyment of Russell Brand. His brand of Brit-speak verbal diarrhea works in small doses, the trick here is to see whether audiences will sit through two hours of word-play rivalled only by Charlie Sheen on a crack fuelled Internet rant.

Mark Breslin: I liked the movie. In fact, I really liked it when I saw it in 1980. It is in no way superior to the original, but Russell Brand does pull it off, although with far less subtlety than Dudley Moore. The lines are good if not great, but I thought everybody else in the film paled in comparison. Even the great Helen Mirren was no John Gielgud, and Greta Gerwig still seems like she's the best thing in a student film.

RC: Mirren may not equal Gielgud here, but it's almost worth the price of admission to see her wear a Darth Vader mask. As for Gerwig I honestly think she's the best thing in the movie. She's naturally charismatic and as un-Hollywood an actor as we have in Hollywood films right now. She's quirky, cool and without her the movie wouldn't be nearly as effective. The second half, when it takes a turn for the touching, is better than the "funny" first half and she's responsible for that.

MB: Interesting. It's the second, "serious" half of the movie that didn't work for me. Brand lacks the tragic element that Moore brought, probably because at five-foot-two Dudley looks vulnerable (and infantile) from the start. And not to attack Ms. Gerwig, but I didn't get why Arthur would choose her as a romantic interest above all others. She wasn't all that wild or even all that Bohemian. I thought Luis Guzman was a far better match, although that would have been a very different movie. Nice to see Nick Nolte, although his extended cameo does not qualify as a comeback vehicle.

RC: Funny how we've spent very little time discussing the star of the movie. Brand can deliver a joke, unfortunately in the first half of the movie he delivers every line like they are all punch lines. Like the character he's playing, he's not as charming as he thinks he is, but he can raise a smile here and there.

Mulroney gets his own opera

ANNE BRODIE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

▶ Rick Miller stars as Brian Mulroney in Mulroney: The Opera.

Mulroney: The Opera is about to raise shackles in a most entertaining, musical way. It's a bizarre satire that leaves little unsaid.

Rick Miller endured three hours of latex, lip synched to an actual opera singer and took the country's pulse to become this towering Wagnerian anti-hero who was our prime minister.

"I slip under the chin of someone who is almost universally vilified, to find a degree of nuance. I like him more now than I did before," Miller said. "If anything this story is somewhat sympathetic."

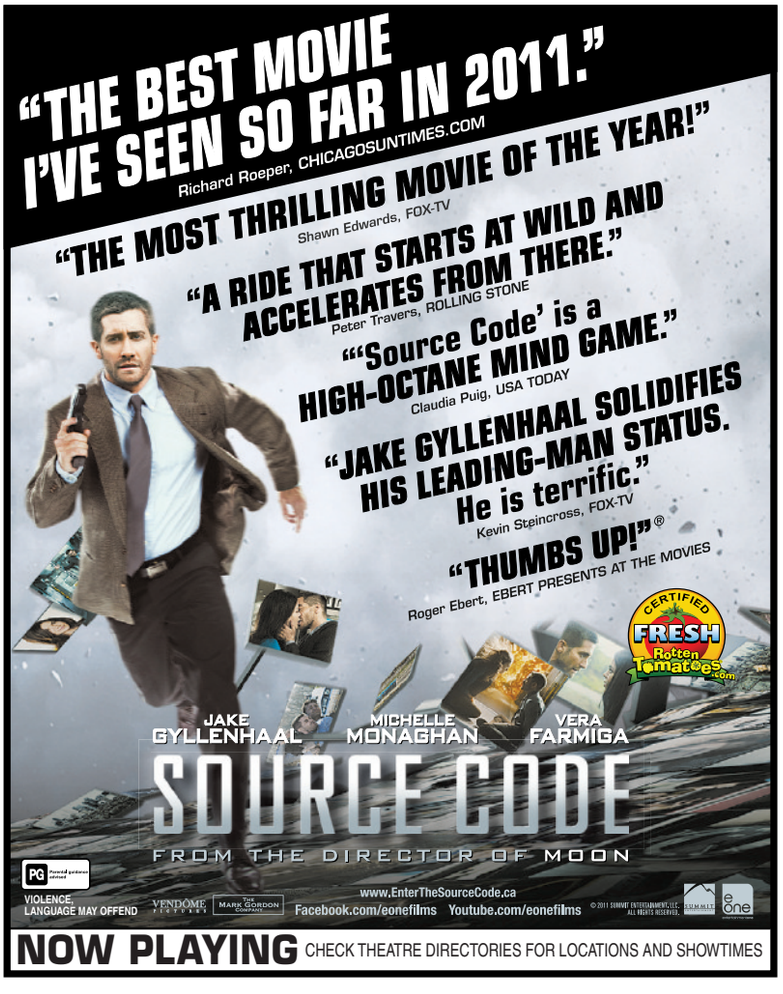
"Look, I've spent several months reading and re-viewing and watching and living this story. It's a satire. He comes across as vain and arrogant, but he was vain and arrogant."

"I slip under the chin of someone who is almost universally vilified, to find a degree of nuance. I like him more now than I did before." RICK MILLER

The story begins in Mulroney's hometown where the seeds of his political future were sown. "He was all doe-eyed about Baie Comeau (Quebec), which was a mill town, an awful place. He had this bright-eyed view of America, a big home away from home," Miller said, adding "A lot of this film is about the delusions of power."

Miller sees Mulroney's legacy as clearly split and haunted by Pierre Trudeau.

"He is loved and loathed," Miller said, "Trudeau has more scandals than Mulroney, but you can't just look at the scandals. He won more seats than Trudeau ever won. I can hear him now, 'Maybe there was that Trudeau movie on the CBC, but I got an OPERA!'"



Going to Scream camp

Despite being one of the new girls in the fourth installment of the horror franchise, Panettiere fits right in

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Coming in as a new castmember in the fourth installment of a horror franchise, an actress can't feel too great about her chances of seeing the end credits.

But Hayden Panettiere insists that in Scream 4, no one is safe. She sat down with Metro to tell us what little she could about the movie.

So what are you allowed to say about the plot of Scream 4?

Sidney Prescott comes back to her hometown, and it's the anniversary. Then weird things start happening, and pranks start being made and (whispering) they come back.

And then a lot of people die. But it's like a giant game of Clue at the same time. Who's the killer? Who's going to die next? It plays off of these rules to the new way of making a horror film. Virgins can die now.

I'm not going to ask you if your character dies.

I know. (laughs) And it's so funny because people come in and they ask it, and then they reword it three or four different ways to try to get it out. But nobody's safe. Anyone can die.

And it's a pretty big cast, too.

You've got a lot of people in there. You would literally run by somebody in the Holiday Inn — that's where we were staying — and you're like, "Hey! What are you doing here? You shooting a movie?" And they're like, "Yeah, Scream 4. You?" "Oh … oh. Me too! Who are you playing?"

What was the atmosphere like at the hotel?

Like camp. It was literally like camp. We had way too much fun. It was barely a movie. They were really welcoming. Like, Neve (Campbell) on the weekends would sometimes rent this big cabin on this big lake and invite the cast and crew out. We had a blast.

▶ Hayden Panettiere, right, stars in Scream 4, which opens next Friday.

Movie review

See it twice | See it now | Worth watching | Yawn | Don't bother

Hanna
Genre: Thriller/Action
Director: Joe Wright
Stars: Saoirse Ronan, Cate Blanchett, Eric Bana

British filmmaker Joe Wright re-fashions himself as an action director with Hanna and pulls it off admirably. Saoirse Ronan stars as the daughter of an ex-CIA cop (Eric Bana) trained from birth for a fight to the death with a longtime familial foe from her father's past (Cate Blanchett). The bulk of the film is dedicated to a chase between Blanchett and Ronan with all of the suspense, gunfights, and endless running montages you'd expect. PHIL BROWN

Born To Be Wild 3D
Genre: Documentary
Director: David Lickley

Director David Lickley creates a series of remarkably immersive images of exotic animals and locations that are impossible not to be hypnotized by on the overwhelmingly massive IMAX canvas. The focus is on Dr. Birute Galdikas and Dr. Daphne Sheldrick, who rescue and raise orphaned orangutans in the rainforests of Borneo, and elephants in the Kenyan savannah respectively. It's lightweight, but inspiring subject matter told through extraordinary larger-than-life images. PHIL BROWN

Rubber
Genre: Horror/Comedy
Director: Quentin Dupieux
Stars: Stephen Spinella, Roxane Mesquida

Rolling onto screens from French director Quentin Depieux, Rubber is the bizarre and darkly funny story of a discarded car tire which springs to life and proceeds to roam through a desert landscape. Oh, and the tire is now armed with psychic powers that allow it to detonate people's heads. Adventurous theatregoers will find themselves amused by the unique, refreshingly ridiculous premise. TREVOR PARKER

Soul Surfer
Genre: Drama
Director: Sean McNamara
Stars: AnnaSophia Robb, Dennis Quaid and Helen Hunt

When young surfer girl Bethany Hamilton's passion for wave riding was cut short by a tiger shark attack in 2003, it made headlines. She survived of course, but her arm was completely severed below the joint. Her road to recovery, her spiritual healing and eventual triumphant re-emergence as a champion surfer makes up the narrative of Soul Surfer, a fairly saccharine, faith themed bio-drama that is nonetheless stirring. CHRIS ALEXANDER

Your Highness
Genre: Comedy
Director: David Gordon Green
Stars: Danny McBride, James Franco, Natalie Portman

I guess the stoner comedy and the medieval adventure were two genres that were never meant to go together, but you can't blame longtime collaborators Danny McBride and director David Gordon Green for trying. This certainly isn't a cookie cutter movie. Isolated sequences and gags are wonderfully bizarre, but overall the project feels like a failed experiment. PHIL BROWN

Littlerock
Genre: Drama
Director: Mike Ott
Stars: Atsuko Okatsuka, Cory Zacharia, Rintaro Sawamoto

A meandering film about a Japanese brother and sister trapped in a forgotten U.S. town, Littlerock often seems like it's going nowhere, but actually has a clear destination. Director Mike Ott to presents the mundane life of listless small town twenty-somethings as a strange and surreal world through the eyes of his two outsiders. A quiet movie with a subtle emotional punch that succeeds on its own small terms. PHIL BROWN

Kaboom
Genre: Comedy
Director: Gregg Araki
Stars: Thomas Dekker, Juno Temple
●●●●
American indie innovator Gregg Araki's latest is a gently demented campus comedy about a sexually omnivorous college student (Thomas Dekker) unravelling a sinister conspiracy with the help of his tart-tonged best friend (Haley Bennett). Despite being frenetically paced and packed with allusions to cinema and comic books, Kaboom never flags, borne down the home stretch by its fabulously attractive cast.
ADAM NAYMAN

La Nostra Vita
Genre: Drama
Director: Daniele Luchetti
Stars: Elio Germano, Isabella Ragonese, Raoul Bova
●●●
La Nostra Vita excels as a showcase for Elio Germano who delivers a remarkable performance as a father in crisis even if the film becomes somewhat contrived. When his wife's sudden death leaves him with two young boys and infant, Germano thrusts himself into work in an attempt to compensate for his single parent family through financial freedom. Worth seeing for the acting masterclass alone.

The Bend
Genre: Drama
Director: Jennifer Kierans
Stars: Adam Butcher, Sophie Traub
●●½
Influenced by real events, a teen deals with the memorial of his brother's mysterious death on prom night by convincing his closest friends to recreate the evening's events to make sense of the tragedy in The Bend. If one can look past the overplayed performances and familiar dialogue, there are inspired moments about struggling with grief.
STEVE GOW

Beeswax
Genre: Drama
Director: Andrew Bujalski
Stars: Tilly Hatcher, Maggie Hatcher, Alex Karpovsky
●●●½
Andrew Bujalski returns with another lo-fi tale of rambling young folks who can't figure out what this life thing is all about. The script centers on two twin sisters, one wheelchair bound and in a contentious litigious battle with her co-owner in a used clothing store and the other between, jobs, boyfriends, and figuring out what to do with her life.

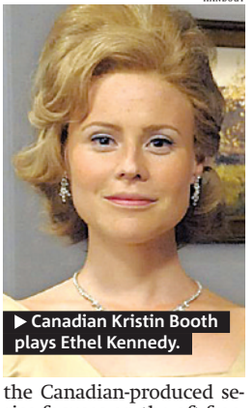
‘A story that we told out of respect’

Beleaguered Kennedys series set to hit Canadian TV Sunday

HANDOUT



▶ Canadian Kristin Booth plays Ethel Kennedy.

Canadian actress Kristin Booth says she had no qualms about joining the beleaguered eight-part miniseries The Kennedys, even though the Toronto-shot historical drama was mired in political controversy that threatened to shut down production.

The bubbly 36-year-old, who plays Ethel Kennedy, says she simply saw an ambitious period piece with a stellar cast and intriguing subject matter.

Besides, she says, it was a given that the miniseries would have to involve some creative invention.

“When you’re trying to tell a story about the relationships of these infamous people — behind the closed doors — yes, there are going to be liberties taken,” says Booth, noting the Canadian-produced series focuses on the oft-fractured familial relationships.

“But with the actual historical facts, no — there were no liberties taken. And anybody who wants to argue that can pick up one of the books.... The Kennedy Men is a great book and one of the ones that I read during my research and everything that we depict in the miniseries is told in that book.”

HANDOUT

Booth — whose TV appearances include The Border and Flashpoint — is well-practised at handling questions about the production’s beleaguered history. She’s just wrapped a press tour south of the border, where she says partisan views were palpable.

The series debuted on the U.S. network ReelzChannel on April 3, a full week before it is set to hit Canadian airwaves on History Television this Sunday.

“There is such a divide in the U.S. right now between the Democrats and the Republicans and this has really showcased that,” says Booth, who attended a glitzy Kennedys red carpet in Los Angeles last week.

“Any publication that has any leaning to the right has given us quite good reviews and, (on the opposite side), anybody who has a leaning to the left has sort of trashed it and said that it’s a slam job. Which it’s not.

“All of us involved in it have the utmost respect for the Kennedy family and we did a ton of research and paid very close attention to the historical facts when we were shooting it. It’s a story that we told out of respect.” THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guessing game begins for viewers

TV season ends with major questions: Who will star next in The Office and Two and a Half Men?

Instability, even unrest. Major changes at the top. Uncertainty for the future.

No, we're not talking about the tumultuous Mideast. We're talking about a pair of popular comedies whose longtime stars have exited with no clear sign of who will replace them.

If you hadn't heard, Charlie Sheen was fired last month from CBS' Two and a Half Men. There will be no more new episodes of Men this season. Meanwhile, the show's producers ponder whether to bring back the show minus Sheen for its ninth season (which seems a no-brainer) and, if they do, which actor to sign who can best fill Sheen's shoes.

Steve Carell, a different sort of fellow who has never once claimed to be a warlock or headlined a Torpedo of Truth concert tour, is departing The Office under much more cordial terms.

As long ago as last spring, Carell was broadly hinting at plans to leave the NBC comedy after this, its seventh season, to concentrate on movies. Recently he shot his last episode, which will air late this month. And then ... who will take over for Carell's character, dippy Michael Scott, at Dunder Mifflin's Scranton office?

These sort of personnel matters aren't usually what occupy a viewer's mind this time of year.

Any other TV season, attention would be showered on which series will be back next fall and which shows might fall by the wayside.

Meanwhile, fans are usually preparing to bid farewell to a favourite show reaching the end of a momentous run. Last year, for example, the impending finales of 24 and Lost had the audience on tenterhooks, eager to see how those sagas would conclude.

The year before, it was ER bowing out after 15 seasons.

By contrast, there are no must-see finales this year. (Sure, Smallville will wrap up after 10 seasons. But who knew it was still on anyway?)

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

15 With Charlie Sheen as the keystone, Two and a Half Men attracted a weekly audience of nearly 15 million viewers this season.

It's all about Oprah on a special two-hour episode of Master Class that focuses on the TV talk diva. Oprah talks about her successes, failures and heartbreaks. (Friday, OWN).

Damn, I feel like singin' ... on TV?

Gladys Knight, Lionel Richie and David Foster are among the famous friends seen helping Shania Twain overcome personal turmoil on the country superstar's upcoming TV series.

The northern Ontario sensation launches her docu-series, Why Not? With Shania Twain, on May 13 on OWN: Oprah Winfrey Network.

The broadcaster says the six-part show will focus on Twain's attempts to recover from her well-publicized divorce from producer Robert (Mutt) Lange and rediscover her singing voice.

Along the way, Twain meets vocal doctors and coaches, a grief counsellor, and has intimate one-on-one conversations with music experts including Knight, Richie and Foster.

She's also seen returning to her hometown of Timmins, Ont., with her sister, Carrie Ann, to revisit childhood memories and their parents' sudden death in a car accident when she was 21.

Twain says in a release that she's thrilled to share her story with Canadian audiences.

Stem Cell Activator

#63

Helps to activate naturally millions of stem cells from our own bone marrow. The increase in stem cells released from the bone marrow into the blood stream have the potential to become other types of tissue cells with specialized function. Stem cells will multiply and are able to become heart cells, liver cells or any other organ. Located everywhere in our body, stem cells are even under our skin layered between the epidermis and dermis. This is why an increase in stem cells under our skin may help to create a more youthful cell that would replenish elastin and collagen and thus may make us look younger. If our bone marrow does not produce enough stem cells this can result in many illnesses, especially a weak heart, kidneys, liver, pancreas, in fact all healthy functions of our body are decreased. Sufficient stem cells in our body have a great potential of self-repair and the ability to rejuvenate tissues. It does not contain live human stem cells as these can only be transplanted by surgery and are subject to immuno-suppressant drugs to avoid graft rejection. Naturopathic Doctor summarized his experience in writing after using this Stem Cell Activator: Used for all organ and tissue damage, heart attack damage, osteo-arthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, traumatic brain injury, muscular dystrophy, Crohn's disease, diabetes, lupus, spinal injuries, and other diseases and tissue damage. The results have been very satisfactory to us and to the patients and the time varies with different patients depending on the extremity of the damage.

Women witnessing the effects of Bell Stem Cell Activator:

■ Women looking for anti-aging help! We all want to slow down aging. After using a bottle of Bell Stem Cell Activator #63 my skin seemed smoother and brighter. My hair looked healthier. It seems to have a cleansing effect. I'm delighted. Leona McCormick, 50, Clgary, AB ■ All around healing effect! The first thing I noticed after starting Bell Stem Cell Activator #63 was that my skin feels firmer and stronger. My friends commented that my skin looks more vibrant. My doctor at my yearly physical told me that my blood pressure is significantly lower. Many good things are happening. Joy Davison, 55, Calgary, AB

Acidic Stomach & Acid Reflux

#39

By Dr. C. Hammoud, PhD - Must help or money refunded

If your stomach is excessively acidic it means all your cells in your body are acidic. By correcting the excessively acidic stomach you should not need anti-acid pills to control reflux (heartburn). All acidic cells are deprived of oxygen and are the breeding ground for many illnesses including weight gain, diabetes, stress, vascular diseases and cancer. This fact was discovered by Dr. Otto Warburg years ago and he received two Nobel Prizes. You can change your acidic cells in your body by eating 80% alkaline food (vegetables, legumes, fruit). Eat 20% acidic food (bread, noodles, rice, animal derived foods). Full details inside the box. If you don't want to make major changes in your diet, try Bell Acidic Stomach/Alkaline Balance #39 guaranteed to bring your body to a pH alkaline balance. Free pH test kit inside the box. Dr. C. Everett Koop M.D. states that 68% of all illnesses and deaths are due to the wrong food and the quantity we eat. Unfortunately, virtually nothing about nutrition or natural health products is taught in medical school say many prominent medical doctors in print and on TV including the well known Dr. Andrew Weil M.D. Go on the internet and inform yourself.

The food revolution will be televised

Jamie Oliver not raw after his show meets resistance in L.A. schools ◗ Continues his healthy food crusade

It turns out that Jamie Oliver's revolution won't be televised — at least not from Los Angeles school kitchens.

The second season of the crusading Brit's healthy eating reality show, Jamie Oliver's Food Revolution, started poorly when the city school district barred his cameras, a serious snag for a program that focuses on school lunches. The Los Angeles Unified School District, which previously had a bad experience with an unrelated reality show, more or less treated Oliver as if he was a cast member of Jersey Shore.

"I think we swam into a minefield," Oliver said. "I'm disappointed that I couldn't get in there at all. I'm disappointed that as public servants, they feel they have the right to not be transparent."

But the trouble didn't end with school officials. There are signs in the first episode (airing on ABC on Tuesday) that the people of Los Angeles aren't fully embracing the revolution either. Only a modest crowd comes out to watch Oliver fill a school bus with a week's worth of the sugar added to the flavoured milk served in L.A. schools (actually 57 tons of white sand).

Oliver dejectedly tells the camera: "This is cold-shoulder stuff."

So did L.A. prove too much for the chef? Hardly.

Oliver remains focused on the multi-national healthy food campaign that has consumed him for more than five years.

"You only have to affect two per cent of the population to make radical change," Oliver said. "And that's what we're talking about, really."

In a TV landscape cluttered with sudden-death cook-offs and flamboyant chefs, Oliver's show has an unusual recipe for success — asking strangers to do what's good for them.

For the second season of Food Revolution, that entails Oliver jousting with school bureaucrats, trying to help parents and kids make better choices and lobbying for healthier food at a local hamburger joint.

Oliver's L.A. experience stands in contrast to his initial campaign to clean up school lunches in his home country, where his allies included then-prime minister Tony Blair.

Oliver suggests the fight was easier there in part because the British media is more aggressive in shining a light on the dark side of the food industry.

It seemed easier to get a critical mass of British parents fed up.

As for Los Angeles, Oliver acknowledges he also was less effective in the largely Hispanic areas he worked because he does not speak Spanish.

Still, he plans to go back to Los Angeles later this month. Oliver says he wants to check in with families he worked with.

Grammy number reduction creates aboriginal dysfunction?

JAE C. HONG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Grammy Awards moved to drop best Native American album category Wednesday sending a shockwave through aboriginal communities.

The Recording Academy, which puts on the annual music awards gala, announced it would reduce the number of categories from 109 to 78 for next year's ceremony.

Material that would have been submitted in the obsolete categories will have a home in other genre categories.

Northern Cree's Steve Wood, who has never won a Grammy despite six nominations, was disappointed when he heard the news.

"I always thought it was good they recognized and acknowledged our music," Wood said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "I thought if I ever got up on that stage, I would tell them that (and thank them) for recognizing and acknowledging what is probably the oldest form of music in this land."

▶ Tia Carrere with the award for best Hawaiian music album, 2011.

If Northern Cree still wants to be considered for a Grammy, the group can submit for consideration in a new category called "best regional roots album."

But that category will also encompass other newly cut awards, so Wood's group would be competing with a diverse cross-section of genres that also includes Hawaiian, zydeco and Cajun music.

"I don't even understand what it means, 'regional roots music.' I have no idea what that means," he said.

"If we're talking about music, the original music of this land, that's aboriginal music. The first music ever played on this land. That's basically it. All other music is derived from somewhere else."

"How can you put round-dancer powwow music against music that is basically closer to mainstream music, with the guitars and whatnot? I don't understand that."

Making it on her own

Lauren Pritchard turned down Glee to pursue her soulful debut album

UNIVERSAL REPUBLIC/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Musician Lauren Pritchard

Ever since Lauren Pritchard was a teenager, she dreamed of becoming a singer-songwriter — a goal she pursued with almost singular determination, even passing up a coveted opportunity to achieve it.

At 18, she appeared on Broadway in Spring Awakening, but left for a musical career. She landed a development deal with a major record label, but abandoned it because she felt she wouldn't be allowed to create songs her way.

Pritchard then auditioned for a TV pilot, but after catching producers' interest, decided not to pursue the role. Instead, she set out for London to record the album she wanted to make for years.

The TV pilot turned out to be Fox network's Glee, and the role was Rachel Berry, which has made Lea Michele a singing and acting sensation.

But Pritchard, who is currently on tour, has no regrets about Glee, or any of her other career choices, because she feels she took the right path.

"I have totally felt I made the right decision, and to me, the success of the show really does excite me because I know that Lea is doing what she loves, and to see her do what she loves ... is very exciting," she said.

"When (Glee) happened, it was when I was taking all of my meetings with record labels, and I just thought ... I'm not sacrificing anymore. I'm doing what I want and I love."
LAUREN PRITCHARD, SINGER-SONGWRITER

Pritchard's debut CD, Wasted in Jackson, is a soulful, wistful album that has received solid to stellar reviews since it was released digitally last fall; it was released to stores in February.

It mines typical territory for a 23-year-old, including love and relationships, but also explores the restlessness of an ambitious spirit trying to avoid stagnation — a theme that resonates with Pritchard. "It's a reflection of how I was really feeling; it was very much written in hindsight," the petite brunette said."

WHERE HAVE ALL THE ROCK STARS GONE?

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Jack White.

The 30 people in my Grade 10 home room class could be classified as follows: three were fans of pop music; five preferred country; and the remaining 22 were KISS fans. KISS were rock stars, musicians with music, money, success and near global ubiquity. We knew this because the DJ on the radio told us so.

As we grew older and spread our musical curiosities wider, we discovered more Rock Stars: Robert Plant, David Lee Roth, Mick Jagger, David Bowie, Ozzy, Freddy Mercury. Not only did we know their music, but we could recognize them within a nanosecond of being shown a picture.

I bring this up because of something Sammy Hagar said in a recent interview: "Where have all the rock stars gone?" he wondered. He wasn't speaking of any disappearance of the old guard or of more recent members of the rock aristocracy (Cobain, Grohl, Cornell, Vedder et al), but of the current generation of rock musicians.

Outside of Jack White and Chris Martin, has the last decade produced a bona fide, worldwide, block-caps ROCK STAR? Sure, groups like Linkin Park and Muse have worldwide fan bases in the millions, but would you be able to spot Chester Bennington or Matt Belamy in a crowd? A fan surely would. Then again, even a non-fan of, say, U2 could identify Bono in a line-up.

Something has gone missing. We're not cranking out true Rock Stars like we used to.

It could be that rock music has been over-segmented into too many separate genres and scenes for any KISS-style mass consensus to form. While many of these genres and scenes are extremely active and vital and contain their own private star systems, few have ascended beyond being celebrities amongst their own people.

This doesn't mean that rock is dying. In fact, more people are making music than ever before. But where we once had a thousand bands with a million fans each, we now have a million bands with a thousand fans each.

Kate Middleton is under a lot of stress, as her wedding to Prince William is just three weeks away, and sources say the soon-to-be Royal may be smoking again to cope.

The joys of Spain

There's a first time for everything and, finally, I got to experience Spain.

While it seems like an obvious place for any respectable wine guy, I never got around to exploring what I discovered was one of the most liquidly lucrative countries on the planet.

The Spanish love vino with an appreciation level that might surpass their counterparts in France and Italy. What excited me was that you'd be hard pressed to find a tapas bar packed with anyone other than wine drinkers.

The city of Logroño, in the province of La Rioja, sold me on the level of Spanish wine appreciation. The city centre is known for its tapas and it was an amazing experience to order a bar's specialty and enjoy it with two dozen like-minded souls.

Internationally known Rioja brands are as popular there as they are here, with rich, fruit-infused wines like the 2007 Marqués de Cáceres Crianza ($16.95 - $21.99) offering regional personality. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Cupboards are filled with abandoned small appliances that have left their owners perplexed as to how they can be incorporated into everyday use.

One of those appliances is the food processor.

But, two new books are hoping to change that.

Canadians hope to keep pressing

It's been Jeff Stoughton's trademark at the Ford World Curling Championship to get an early lead and relentlessly defend it.

The execution of that strategy resulted in Canada's first-place finish in the preliminary round Thursday in Regina.

Stoughton, third Jon Mead, second Reid Carruthers and lead Steve Gould intend to keep pressuring right from the first rocks thrown in the playoffs.

Canada should be able to do that Friday against Scotland's Tom Brewster (TSN, 9:30 ET) as the host team is starting with last rock.

"Hopefully, we can score some points right off the hop because that seems to be working really well for us," Stoughton said. "We're not going to change it for (Friday's) game."

"These guys work hard, harder than any team I've ever had."
SCOTLAND SKIP TOM BREWSTER ABOUT HIS CANADIAN OPPONENTS

Heading into their final draw Thursday night versus Norway, Canada had outscored its opposition 46-24.

The front end of Carruthers and Gould share in the credit for that.

They have buried their stones where the opposition can't get to them, which lets Mead and Stoughton set up multiple-point ends.

The winner of the top two seeds in Friday's game goes directly to Sunday's championship. The loser can still get there via a win in the semifinal, where they meet the winner between the third and fourth seeds. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Loss to A's can't dampen Jays' start

Farrell: 'Our guys showed some resiliency through this homestand'

There seemed to be an air of satisfaction in the Toronto Blue Jays' locker-room Thursday afternoon despite a tough 2-1 loss to the Oakland Athletics.

The Jays' offence was solid over the 4-2 homestand and the pitching was reliable throughout both three-game series. Trevor Cahill (1-0) proved to be too strong in the finale as the Oakland starter allowed just three hits and one earned run over eight innings.

Connor Jackson knocked in the winning run with a single off Jason Frasor (1-1) in the eighth. Frasor relieved Ricky Romero, who pitched 7⅓ innings of four-hit ball, allowing one earned run and striking out five.

Toronto skipper John Farrell said he was satisfied with the performance over the first week.

ATHLETICS	BLUE JAYS

"We'll take four out of six every time we toe it up," Farrell said. "They showed they've got the ability to compete when we're not at 100 per cent."

Toronto did not have Jose Bautista (personal) for the Oakland series and shortstop Yunel Escobar missed Thursday's game with a mild concussion. Bautista is expected back to kick off a 10-game road trip Friday against the Los Angeles Angels. Escobar, who was injured on a slide to third base Wednesday, is day to day and will make the trip. IOC DOES RIGHT LETTING WOMEN TAKE FLIGHT

Opinion

SCOTT RUSSELL
FIELD OF PLAY

Make no mistake, the inclusion of women's ski jumping beginning with the 2014 Olympics in Sochi is a major victory for all females who love sport.

It brings the Olympics, long an archaic "old boys" institution, that much closer to an equality of the sexes. Ski jumping and Nordic combined were the last holdouts on a competition program, which had discriminated against females since the Winter Games began in Chamonix in 1924.

Now, Nordic combined remains the last hurdle to leap over.

"I hope we're beyond the days when people thought there were physiological differences that prevented women from competing in sport," says Dru Marshall, the chair of the Canadian Association for the Advancement of Women in Sport and Physical Activity.

Marshall is also the deputy provost at the University of Alberta and the former national women's field hockey coach.

"This is a powerful statement by the Olympic committee," Marshall stresses. "It moves towards gender equity at the Games at a time when women are more involved in physical activity and sport than they have been at any period in history. These women will be terrific role models."

It's been a long road to get here and not without major bumps.

The only females to appear at the first Winter Games in Chamonix were figure skaters. Sports integral to the Olympics such as cross-country skiing and speedskating didn't see women compete until 1952 and 1956, respectively. The men have always been in at the very beginning. Olympic women's hockey is as recent as Nagano in 1998 and women's bobsleigh first appeared at the 2002 Salt Lake Games.

Balance is finally on the horizon, even though it's taken court battles for women to claim their share of the spotlight. There have been myriad questions about depth and quality of competition. Two failed bids for Olympic inclusion and challenges to the B.C. Supreme Court, as well as the Supreme Court of Canada have meant plenty of disappointment for a generation of aspiring female ski jumpers.

"They have shown great tenacity and courage in the face of adversity," says Marshall. "We're getting close. At the last two Olympics about 44 per cent of the athlete population was female."

Amen to that.

There's plenty of room for men and women to compete in all sports on the Olympic field of play.

On the links

How a few top golfers did on the opening day of the Masters in Augusta, Ga.

- Rory McIlroy, 21, surged to the top of the Masters in early play with a 7-under 65 Thursday.
- Alvaro Quiros birdied the final two holes under darkening skies to match McIlroy at 7-under.
- McIlroy and Quiros had a two-shot lead over a pair of South Koreans, former PGA champion Y.E. Yang and K.J. Choi.
- Mike Weir may not make it to the end of the tournament. The former Masters champion stumbled with an opening round 4-over 76.
- Tiger Woods wasn't anywhere near the lead, but at least he wasn't totally out of it. Mired in the longest winless streak of his career, he finished with a 1-under 71.
